

A Bevy of Babies

We know when we rescue jennies that many of them are pregnant. These females are placed in the “maternity ward”, a pasture especially designated for expectant mothers. In the course of the last few months, ten of them have presented us with foals.

The daily joy of watching these young ones blossom is truly heartwarming. Many of the mothers who come here have experienced abuse and neglect, leading them to be wary of humans. With the passing of time the foals are helping their mothers learn that people can be compassionate and nurturing.

Our goal is to ensure that they all have good lives in secure and loving forever homes. For now, let's cherish these precious moments, content in the knowledge that they will all have bright futures
